HENLEY-PUTNAM UNIVERISTY WELCOMES THE FIRST CLASS OF DOCTORAL STUDENTS IN THE FIELD OF STRATEGIC SECURITY

San Jose, CA, January 15, 2009 – Henley-Putnam University (www.Henley-Putnam.edu), a premier university for online higher education in the field of Strategic Security, is pleased to welcome the first ever class of Doctoral students in the field of Strategic Security. With cross-disciplinary studies in Intelligence Management, Terrorism and Counterterrorism Studies, and Management of Personal Protection, these students are preparing for career advancement across both the public and private sectors.

"Henley-Putnam's Doctorate in Security Studies will allow me to be more useful to both the Coast Guard and to other agencies following my Coast Guard career," said Doctoral student and Coast Guard officer Mark Molavi.

"We are delighted by the positive early response to our Doctorate in Strategic Security program which has already attracted a number of senior, mid-career professionals from across the military, government and corporate sectors after having announced it only two months ago," said Henley-Putnam CEO, Greg Von Gehr.

Those interested in learning more about Henley-Putnam's Doctoral degree program should visit www.Henley-Putnam.edu, or call University Admissions at 888-852-8746.
