Henley-Putnam Unveils Scholarship Contest for Service Members

Through Sharing Their Stories, Service Men and Women Can Win a Scholarship from Henley-Putnam University

(San Jose, CA, August 24, 2009) – On the heels of the passing of the Post-9/11 GI Bill – the most comprehensive education benefit for veterans offered since World War II – Henley-Putnam University announced a new contest offering service men and women a chance to earn a scholarship toward a bachelor’s, master’s or doctorate degree in a Strategic Security–related field.

“Henley-Putnam University was founded by men and women who have served this nation and know what that sacrifice means,” said Michael Corcoran, PhD, Henley-Putnam University president and former U.S. Secret Service agent. “We are so proud of our military students. Through this contest, we hope to give back to these brave individuals by offering an additional opportunity for career advancement.”

The “Share Your Service Story” contest invites former and active service men and women to share their stories through one-page essays reflecting on their service experience and career aspirations. Beginning August 24, 2009, prospective students can visit <http://www.Henley-Putnam.edu/829-185.htm> and submit an essay answering one of the following questions:
